Student reflection

I love planting as I am able to watch it grow from a seed to a full-grown plant

By growing plant, it teaches me to appreciate the environment so as my plant can grow well.

With bad environment, all the plant will not be able to live and there will not be enough oxygen for us to live. Plants are important to all living things as they produce oxygen.

The plant that I have grew was Kang Kong plant.

Kang Kong is a type of vegetable that we could eat. Eating more Kang Kong keep us healthy and will keep us strong.

Lets plant more to make the earth a better place!
