On the day I got my sunflower seeds, I was extremely happy as I thought my sunflower would grow very big, healthy and had big flowers. When I went home I immediately took out my pot, seeds, shovel to dig and the water spray and planted my sunflower seeds. For the first few days, I thought it was normal for the seeds to not germinate. Days passed and my sunflower seeds still did not germinate. I wondered "Why are the seeds not germinating? Have my sunflower seeds expired? Should I wait for a few more days?". I waited for a few more days and it still did not germinate. Now I knew that my seeds are expired. I wanted to give up but my mother came to the rescue and said that it was okay that they did not grow, and that we still have some chinese spinach seeds left in the store room. Hence I did not give up. I immediately planted my new seeds. I gave them plenty of water, put them near the window for air and sunlight. It took only a few days for the seeds to germinate. I could see the seedlings growing. I hope that the seedlings will continue grow healthily into chinese spinach. I also hope that I am able to harvest my very first vegetables and can eat the chinese spinach in the future.
